MSDIS General News
The Missouri Kids Count story map has reached its final release stage. The application includes five interactive maps related to Missouri's children and their unique situations during the COVID-19 crisis.

MSDIS would like to thank our student workers who, in spite of an unexpected speedbump in the middle of the semester, did some really wonderful work over the past few months. Alex Ringling, Griffin Johnson, and Abby Hunt were the first students to enroll in our MSDIS internship program and we thoroughly enjoyed working with them and helping them navigate the often confusing world of GIS. We were also fortunate enough to have Ben Kite remain with MSDIS this semester as our workstudy student.

It is, however, with tremendous sadness that MSDIS says goodbye to both Alex and Griffin as the two graduate from Mizzou Geography despite the unique challenges of the past couple of months. We congratulate them both and look forward to following their progress and successes now that they are out in the real world. At present, we believe that both Ben and Abby will be back to help out with MSDIS work next in the Fall.

Finally, we also want to congratulate both the Department of Geography and the College of Arts & Sciences for another successful (if not highly atypical) semester and thank them for continued support. The work that MSDIS does would not be possible without the backing of the University of Missouri and we are grateful for their trust and encouragement. We are excited to continue to work more closely with Mizzou Geography as the University adapts to meet the challenges of the future.
