MSDIS General News

A relatively quiet June gave us time for some much needed website edits. In particular, we have changed the way that new jobs are posted to the MSDIS Jobs page. In order to make jobs easier to submit to MSDIS (and easier to post by MSDIS), we are now only posting the name, a link to the actual announcement (if applicable), location, agency, salary, and closing date. By eliminating the extended descriptions that we had been posting, we are able to add new searches MUCH faster.

MSDIS Bicentennial Project

To celebrate Missouri's Bicentennial, Team MSDIS has been working on a small application to highlight all of the important, interesting, scenic, and oddball places around the state. The project is currently under construction and can be found HERE. You'll notice that Team MSDIS has already seeded the project with a few photos, but the goal is to incorporate photos from the entire MSDIS family. Our friends in Mizzou Geography have begun advertising the project to undergrad and graduate students, but we wanted to use this space to invite our MSDIS users to submit their own photos. If you are interested in adding to the collection, and we hope you are, all you need to do is email your photo to msdismail@missouri.edu with the name of the location and a brief, three(ish) sentence description of why the location is important to you. You can send us as many photos as you'd like, though if we end up going over the 200 photo mark, we will have to make some cuts.
