MSDIS General News

As is always the case when working in a university setting, MSDIS said a reluctant goodbye to our Spring 2022 interns. Sam and Jake did excellent work for the clearinghouse (in spite of our incredibly distracted schedule) and they both put together some really interesting ArcGIS Online projects that will be published in the near future. As with all of our students, we wish them nothing but the best as they leave depart Mizzou for the real world.

On the new server front, we suffered a significant setback during May but believe that we have rebuilt the replacement imagery server to (once again) run parallel with the existing imager server. What's more, the server is connected to a viable HTTPS connection and is available to use and view. At this stage of the game, we are slowly making the link available to MSDIS partners to test out. Since our first attempt to stand this server up met with a rather spectacular and unexplained end, we are going to take the (hopeful) roll out of this version that much more carefully. Once enough colleagues have confirmed that they are able to interact with the new machine, we will make the link available to everyone to test. At some point in the distant future, once we are satisfied with the stability of the new machine, we will ask DoIT to perform a URL swap so that <https://moimagery.missouri.edu/arcgis/rest/services> points to the new machine. As with the previous server swap of several years ago, our plan here is to make the change in such a way that our users do not have to update any links on their end.
